

This guide maps an overview of key points from a range of JCU teaching, learning and assessment related policies and procedures to the subject lifecycle.

Please refer to the policy library for a full description of the policy or procedure.

approaches to learning in recognition to their learning needs and acknowledging their social and culturally diverse backgrounds.

Student learning is facilitated by inspiring, motivating and research-informed teaching.

Students receive explicit learning and teaching information using commonly accepted terminology and language appropriate to the discipline.

Teaching requirements.

Learning activities and teaching strategies cater for, and encourage, student equity, diversity and inclusion.

Consultation

Consultation arrangements communicated in subject outline.

Assessment is valid, fair, authentic, developmental, transparent, and varied.

Assessment methods.

Early assessment (pre- census) must be used to monitor student progress against subject learning outcomes and to identify additional support requirements.

Breach by a student - report as directed in the Student Academic Misconduct Procedure.

Examination papers for the examination period are securely prepared, approved and submitted to the College Administration and Examinations Unit in a timely manner in order to meet deadlines, as outlined in the Examinations Procedure.

Moderation

Moderation.

Grading/marking

Grades and results.

Providing Feedback

Feedback on assessment.

Students receive feedback on early assessment item before census date.

Feedback on assessment provided in timely manner relative to study period:

- within 15 university working days for 13-week subject
- within 7 university working days for 7-week subject.

Feedback on examinations available in LearnJCU GradeCentre or by student request after results release date.

A deferred assessment (including an examination) is a delay (postponement) to the start date of an assessment item. A deferral can be requested by a student due to extenuating circumstances under the Special Consideration Procedure.

Promote YourJCU survey in accordance with the Student Experience of Learning and Teaching Policy.

